Strengthen the RAFT Homelessness Prevention Program in Fiscal Year 2019:
Increase funding to help more low-income households avoid or exit homelessness

The Residential Assistance for Families in Transition Program (RAFT, Line Item 7004-9316) is designed to allow eligible households to receive a maximum of $4,000/year in flexible funds to help avoid or exit homelessness. Typical uses for RAFT include funds for rent, mortgage, or utility arrears, first and last months’ rent, startup costs, moving expenses, related household expenses, and/or employment-related transportation costs. RAFT provides short-term financial assistance to households with incomes at or below 50% of area median income (AMI). At least 50% the funds are dedicated to households with incomes below 30% AMI. RAFT is a program of the Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), and is administered by 11 regional agencies across the Commonwealth.

For FY 2019, the Coalition and partners are asking the Legislature to deepen the overall investment in RAFT by increasing funding to $18.5 million, up from the FY’18 funding level of $15 million, and to maintain FY’17/FY’18 language that expanded the definition of family. We recommend that $14.5 million be dedicated to families with dependent children under the age of 21, and $4 million be dedicated to applicants who are eligible under the expanded definition of family included since FY’17, including elders, people with disabilities, unaccompanied youth, and families without dependent children.

- With $18.5 million in FY’19, an estimated 5,998 households would be able to receive immediate resources to avoid homelessness, based on the average FY’17 RAFT expenditure of $3,084/household (including $503 in administrative costs). By contrast, the state spent an average of $41,990 for each household that entered the state’s family shelter program. This represents an average savings of $38,906 for each family that avoided homelessness through the RAFT program in terms of shelter costs alone.

- In FY 2017, RAFT eligibility expanded to provide homelessness prevention resources to 197 households who were elders, single adults, persons with disabilities, and unaccompanied youth.

- RAFT continues to be a flexible tool for households with low incomes, helps households avoid or exit homelessness, and plays an important role in the Commonwealth’s comprehensive approach to upstream homelessness prevention.

Please actively support increasing RAFT funding to $18.5 million and maintaining expanded eligibility language for FY’19 to help more families and individuals across the Commonwealth to have a safe, stable place to call home.

The updated guidelines that include all households have been critical to meeting the needs of the women we serve. It has made such a difference! For women who are lucky to have a housing offer, no one has the financial wherewithal for moving-in costs: it is simply not feasible on an SSI or SSDI income (and in fact an SSI recipient isn’t even allowed to save enough for moving costs!). For women who are striving to avoid homelessness, money for eviction-prevention payments is nearly impossible to find without RAFT. Private charities can’t afford the amounts required. So, if a person falls behind on rent due to an unforeseen situation, or simply struggles with the life skills to maintain a tenancy, RAFT provides that lifeline to stay housed. This is important because once a person has an eviction on record (which is a public record) landlords are seldom willing to extend an offer of housing. This lengthens the time a household experiences homelessness and perpetuates the cycle. RAFT disrupts the cycle and helps build stability and health.” – Women’s Lunch Place
